8 - There are different animals living on Earth. Animals like leopards, lions, tigers, cheetahs and elephants are wild. They live in their own natural home. Other animals live with or near humans. Cows, camels, ducks and goats are examples of farm animals living with humans.

We can also divide wild animals based on where they live. While some wild animals like monkeys and tigers live in the jungle, others live in the desert. Snakes, types of mice and lizards are all desert animals. Animals like zebras and leopards live in the grasslands. And of course, fish, turtles, sharks and whales are sea animals. Jungles, deserts, grasslands and seas are natural homes, or natural habitats, of different wild animals.

All the animals live well together in their natural habitats. That doesn't mean they don't hunt other animals. They all get what they need from their habitats. Still, they are part of nature. Each animal plays a role in its natural home. And they don't destroy nature.
